“Major Professor (Faculty Adviser): New students should select a Major Professor before completing the first quarter, or in the second quarter at the latest. Students should discuss with the selected faculty member and obtain their consent to serve as their Major Professor. The Major Professor relationship is established by mutual agreement. While students should feel free to discuss academic matters with any faculty member, typically the Major Professor will oversee most of the student's research and progress during their degree program. Students may change major professors at any time as their research and educational interests change and develop.” (Guidance Manual, page 4)
