2022 UC Davis Grand Slam

Grad Slam is the annual event for all master’s and doctoral students to share their research story, concisely and compellingly, in three minutes or less!

Not only will you refine your research communication skills, but the winners will also take home prizes ranging from $500 to $2,500.

The Grad Slam competition starts with video submissions for the virtual qualifying round. A panel of judges will select the top ten finalists to proceed to compete at the in-person UC Davis Semi-Final Round on April 6.

To participate in the qualifying round, record your Grad Slam presentation and upload the video along with an accompanying PowerPoint slide by February 16.

Graduate Teaching Community

Are you interested in learning more about evidence-based research on teaching and learning? Do you want to improve your teaching and develop strategies that lead to better learning outcomes? Do you want to build a competitive CV? Do you want to collaborate with an interdisciplinary graduate student group?

If you answered YES to any of these questions, join the Graduate Teaching Community today!

GTC meetings are informal, discussion-based gatherings geared toward enhancing the teaching skills of graduate student instructors. Every meeting begins with a check-in from participants about their teaching practices and classroom experiences, followed by a discussion of evidence-based teaching and learning strategies facilitated by GTC participants. In Winter 2022, the group will use the book How Learning Works by Susan Ambrose et al. as the basis of their discussions. It is available as a free e-book to the UC Davis community through the UC Davis Library.

First Meeting: Friday, January 14th
Location: Meetings will be held via Zoom through January 28th. Register here.
