Nature-based Solutions Internship at Fairfield-Suisun Sewer District

Are you studying environmental or water-resource engineering, climate science, landscape architecture, or urban planning? This is a great and flexible opportunity for a student looking for part-time work who also wants to learn about nature-based solutions, climate resilience, and local government.

More information attached. Click here to apply - Deadline is August 15, 5pm.
Any questions, please contact us at (707) 429-8930.

Graduate Writing Fellow for 2022-23

The Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC) Graduate Writing Fellowship, administered by the University Writing Program with support from GradPathways, offers graduate students from all disciplines a valuable professional development opportunity, along with a quarterly stipend of $1,000 (for a total of $3,000 per academic year), and a chance for an additional $1,000 stipend during the summer. Access the application here:

<https://forms.gle/NUVN7ZbvQFMkax1TA>

Graduate Writing Fellows support other graduate students across disciplines through one-on-one writing consultations, share and develop their own writing expertise (within and beyond their disciplines), and learn more about Writing Across the Curriculum and Writing Studies theory and practice through monthly professional development meetings and a year-long project. We encourage graduate students with strong writing skills from a range of disciplines to apply; we currently have particular needs for students pursuing a PhD in a STEM field, or students with some experience in scientific writing or editing. This year we will select two new Graduate Writing Fellows to join a cohort of six continuing Fellows.

For more information, please contact Marit MacArthur, Associate Director of Writing Across the Curriculum - Graduate level: mjmacarthur@ucdavis.edu
