

Udall Undergraduate Scholarship

The Udall Undergraduate Scholarship honors the legacies of Morris K. Udall and Stewart L. Udall, whose careers had a significant impact on Native American self-governance, health care, and the stewardship of public lands and natural resources. Scholars receive up to $7,000, participate in leadership development and professional networking through scholar orientation in Tucson, AZ, and access to the Udall alumni network. The foundation will select up to 60 candidates who plan careers to benefit the environment or Native tribes (tribal candidates only).

Eligibility

- Be a full-time sophomore or junior
- Be a U.S. citizen, U.S. national, or U.S. permanent resident.
- Tribal candidates must be enrolled members or descendants by first or second degree of an enrolled member of a state or federally recognized Indian tribe or band, considered by the Secretary of the interior to be an Indian, be an Eskimo, Aleut, or other Alaska Native, or a member of the First Nations of Canada.
- Strong Udall candidates will have extensive records that demonstrate an ability to lead and motivate others, make a difference by civility and consensus building, and show a commitment to finding solutions to issues impacting Indian country or environmental challenges.

Application Process

UC Davis may nominate up to four (4) tribal plus four (4) environmental candidates to the national competition. Applicants must submit a completed sample application, transcripts, and essay by the campus deadline.
